Editor & Editorial Board Experience for International & National Refereed Journals

1. Associate Editor (2022 – 2024)

International Journal of Public Administration

International Journal of Public Administration (IJPA) is an international, research-driven, and peer-reviewed publication aimed at exploring the latest developments in public administration, public policy, and management – translating theory for practice and practice into theory. IJPA is a truly global journal in scope, covering developed, emerging and transitional states, nonprofit and nongovernmental organizations, and all areas of public activity. We welcome theoretical, analytical, quantitative, qualitative, empirical, and practitioner-based, as well as individual country-based, region-based, and especially comparative works. Cite-Score: 2.4

2. Book Review Editor (2021 – 2025)

American Review of Public Administration

The American Review of Public Administration (ARPA) is an elite scholarly journal in public administration and public affairs. ARPA's identity lies at the core of the field of public administration, and its quality and reputation have grown in tandem as the journal marked its fiftieth year in 2020. ARPA focuses substantively on public administration broadly defined, publishing scholarship on all aspects of the field, including such traditional areas as organization and management studies, program and performance evaluation, and budgeting and financial management, as well as such emerging areas as network governance, public involvement, and public service motivation. Cite-Score: 4.3

4. Editorial Board Member (2017 – Present)

Nonprofit Management and Leadership

Nonprofit Management and Leadership (NML) publishes the field's best conceptual advances in understanding management, leadership, or governance of private nonprofit organizations. Each issue of NML offers readers the authoritative insights of top scholars on the common concerns of nonprofit managers, leaders, and boards in all private nonprofit settings, including social services, the arts, education, foundations, community development, religion, and member associations. All research methods and approaches are welcome, so long as authors can articulate substantial advances in knowledge relevant to the field and implications for practice. Cite-Score: 3.3
